As mentioned in last week's report, VRG held a series of meetings to discuss sales volumes for the remainder of the year. Following these discussions, several VRG factories have suspended further spot sales, having already achieved their sales targets for 2026. This could further tighten supply, which has already been impacted by adverse weather conditions in Vietnam.

In Indonesia, forest fires continue to spread across the country, disrupting tapping activities, processing operations, and transportation. While the most severe impact is being felt by local communities, neighboring countries including Singapore, Malaysia, and Brunei remain covered by dense haze. Meaningful relief is unlikely until the region receives sustained and substantial rainfall.

Futures markets came under pressure following a correction in equity markets during the middle of the week. However, physical rubber prices remained largely unaffected and continued to trade at firm levels.
